INDEX.

B

Bennett Judgment, the, 270—charges against Mr. Bennett, 270—Christ's Presence in the Eucharist, 271—expressions in the New Testament on this subject, 273—transubstantiation according to the definition of the Fourth Council of Lateran, 280—tendency in the Protestant Church for the purely outward and material view, 285—relation of the two conflicting tendencies in England, 286—the Catechism in the time of James I., 289—modern expressions, 290—other aspects of the judgment, 293—general conclusion, 295–8.

Berkeley, George, Bishop of Cloyne, review of Fraser's edition of the complete works of, 1—notice of Berkeley, 2–4—his early works and studies, 5—Toland, 13—Berkeley's sympathies for Cartesianism, 16–22—his successes in London, 27—on the Continent, 28—the South Sea and the Bermuda schemes, 29–33—his antipathy to Collins, 34—attacks and condemns freethinking, 35—leading features of his philosophical character and work, 39–46.

Burckhardt, J., review of his 'Cultur der Renaissance,' 114.

C

Colebrooke, Henry Thomas, review of the Life of, 461—his career as a servant of the East India Company, 463—revival of Greek culture, 463—Colebrooke in Madras and Calcutta, 465—his interest in Sanskrit literature, 466—his progress, 471—caste, 472–5—at Nagpur, 475—his works, 475–83—his death, 485—his scholarship, 485.

Corea, review of works relating to, 299—description of a recent writer, 300—history of it, 300—introduction of Christianity, 302—Pierre Li, 304—beginnings of the Roman Catholic propaganda, 304—survey of the kingdom, 307–22—the French missionaries, 323—war between the French and the Coreans, 324–9—American demonstration, 330–3.

F

Fiji Islands, review of correspondence and documents relating to, 429—deportation of South Sea Islanders, 429—prophecies of Bishop Patteson, 431—Lord Normanby's despatch, 433—Mr. Pritchard's despatch, 435—Colonel Smythe's reports to the Secretary of State for the Colonies, 437—population of the islands, 438—Fiji Cotton, 441—address from the Fijian King, 443—establishment of the Fijian Government, 444—Intercolonial Conference at Melbourne, 444—debate in the House of Commons on a protectorate of Fiji, 453—feelings of other nations as to the possession of harbours in the Pacific, 458–61.

Fraser, Professor, review of his edition of the complete works of Bishop Berkeley. See Berkeley.

Grote's Aristotle, review of, 515—the life of Aristotle, 519—Peripatetics, 523—death of Alexander the Great, 524—fate of the library and MSS. of Aristotle, 526—Zeno and the Stoics, 529—exoteric discourses, 534—Aristotle's philosophy, 537—the logical treatises, 538—the Organon, 549—the treatise on the soul, 551—Grote's fragment, 556.

H

Helps, Arthur, review of his 'Thoughts upon Government,' 83—the public revenue, 84—functions of civil government, 85—those of Great Britain, 86—Parliament, its obstructiveness and want of foresight, 88–91—paternal governments, 92—of the expenditure of the country, 97—the Post Office, and the diplomatic and consular services, 98—vexatious effects of parsimony, 99—confusion of the legislative and administrative functions of Government, 101—India and its Government, 103—wise and discriminating quality in a Minister in the selection of his subordinates, 108—object of Government, 111—constitution of the House of Lords, 113.

J

Japan, Reform in, 244—Marco Polo's account, 245—Mendez Pinto, 246—Francis Xavier, 247—Christianity, 248–9—the Japanese Embassy in America, 250—Speeches of the Mikado and the vice-ambassador Ito, 251—opinions of De Tocqueville and Lord Hatherton, 253—Japanese political and social institutions, 256—progress of the country, 259—its corruption, 267—character of the people, 267—wants of the country, 268.

L

Life and Disease, Researches on, review of works relating to, 216—blood of the living animal, 216—blood corpuscles, 219—bioplasm, 222—disease, 228—zymotic or infectious disease, 229—consumption, 238–44.

M

Medicine and Surgery, review of works relating to, 488—experience as to medicine and as to surgery, 488–9—anæsthetics, 490—lithotrity, 492—ovariotomy, 494—amputation, 495—extraction of diseased bones, 497—club-foot and squint, 497—tumours, 498—skin-grafting, 499—surgical revivals, 500—midwifery, 501—triumphs of surgery, 502—mortality in barracks, 503—hospitals, 504—phlebotomy, 505—Bright's disease, 507—the diaphonoscope, 508—tools of the medical man, 509—treatment of lunacy, 511—hopes for the future, 514.

N

Naval Tactics, the Past and the Future of, review of works relating to, 559—tactical periods, 562—Greece, 563—Venice, 564—Spain, 566—England, 567—Holland, 568—France, 571—modern battles, 574–83—steam-rams, 584—possibility of applying the Kriegsspiel to naval campaigns, 589 note.

P

Pombal, Memoirs of the Marquis of, review of works relating to, 179—John V., 183–4—King Joseph, 188—family of the Marquis of Pombal, 186—in office, 188—his services, 189—blow aimed at the power of the Inquisition, 190—the General Company of Grand Para and Maranham, 192—earthquake of Lisbon, 193—restrictions on Portuguese commerce, 197—hostility to the Minister, 199—arrests and executions of the nobles, 201–2—punishment of the Jesuits, 203—dispute about Nova Colonia, 204—Carvalho's demeanour towards the Holy See, 207—his other acts, 209—close of his career, 211—his personal appearance, 212—his character, by Sir P. Francis, 213–5.

Popes and the Italian Humanists, review of works relating to the, 114—Humanism, 116—Dante's 'Divina Commedia,' 117—Petrarch and Boccaccio, 117—revived study of the Classics, 118—the Greek revival, 119—Chrysoloras, 119—the Council of Constance, 122—Poggio and the Latin authors, 123—Pope Martin V., 123—the popes at Florence, 124–6—study of antiquity, 127—Thomas of Sarzana, 128—the Vatican library, 132—Calixtus III. and Pius II., 133—connexion of the latter with the literary conditions of his age, 136—Sixtus IV., 142—secularisation of the Papacy, 143—Leo X., 143—Giovanni Pico di Mirandola, 144—Savonarola, 145–6—Alexander VI., 147—Julius II., 147.

R

Reumont, Alfred von, review of his 'Geschichte der Stat Rom,' 114.

S

Shakspearian Interpretations, New, 335—errors and obscurities, 335—editors, 336—illustrations from popular field sports, 339–60—obscure points connected with the natural history, rural botany, and social usages of Shakspeare's time, 360–73.

Southern States since the War, review of works relating to, 148—reconstruction of the fabric of civilisation, 149 — the liberated negroes, 151—isolation of the Southern people, 153—slavery and slave owners, 155—cotton cultivation, 156—coal-fields of Alabama, 157—reorganisation of the agricultural labour of the South, 158—negroes, 159—revival and improved systems of cotton culture, 164–70—faults of the Southern whites, 170—the Ku-Klux-Khan, 170–3—complete restoration of prosperity, 174–9.

Stockmar, Baron, review of the Memorials of, 374—his life, 374—his manners and opinions, 377—his parentage and early life, 378—marriage of Prince Leopold to Princess Charlotte, 379—the English Royal Family, 380—death of Princess Charlotte, 382—birth of Queen Victoria, 383—offer of the crown of Greece to Prince Leopold, 383—administration of the Duke of Wellington, 385—Prince Polignac, 386—fate of his master and him, 387—allowance to Prince Leopold, 387—who becomes King of the Belgians, 388—his position in Belgium, 389—M. Gendebien and M. Van der Weyer, 390—accession of William IV., 390–1—Donna Maria, Queen of Portugal, 392—accession of the Queen of England, 394—Sir Herbert Taylor, 394—Prince Albert, 396–7—Baron Stockmar's duties, 396–8—the Czar Nicholas's conversations, 399—Baron Bunsen, 401—Patent of the King of Prussia, 402—Revolution of February 1848, 403—dispute as to the Duchies of Schleswig and Holstein, 405—death of Baron Stockmar, 406.

Stuarts, Les Derniers, à Saint Germain-en-Laye, review of, 47—the old château at, 47—James II. of England, 47—Mary Beatrice, his Queen, 48–51—the Pretender, 50—Clementina Sobieski, 53—monastery of La Trappe, 53—convent of Chaillot, 54—Scotch College in Paris and the papers there, 55–7—Cardinal of York, 59–60—Dr. Watson and the Stuart papers, 60–1—the Malatesta papers, 63—the Leeds papers, and those at Trinity College, Dublin, and the Dublin Royal Academy, 63—those at Modena, and in France, 64–5—death and funeral of James II., 66—and of Queen Mary Beatrice, 70—second marriage of James II. (when Duke of York), 71—Burnet's account of Queen Mary Beatrice, 77—her letters, 79–81—her character, 81–2.

Surgery, review of works relating to. See Medicine and Surgery.

T

Terrestrial Magnetism, review of works relating to, 407—declination of the needle, 408—discovery of the magnetic pole, 410—Baron A. von Humboldt's investigations, 411—periodical character of the disturbances and their cosmical character, 414–9—magnetic survey of Canada, 427—and of the Eastern Archipelago, 427.

Z

Zeller, J., review of his 'Italie et la Renaissance,' 114.

END OF VOL. CXXXVI.

LONDON: PRINTED BY
SPOTTISWOODE AND CO., NEW-STREET SQUARE
AND PARLIAMENT STREET